Dear Andrew,

Okay, here is my story of Damanhur. While living in Mount Shasta, California, I was researching ancient civilizations, including Lemuria and Atlantis, when I stumbled across the Federation of Damanhur website www.damanhur.org/. I decided to go to Northern Italy to investigate this mysterious community where the residents had reportedly been experimenting with time travel. Upon arriving, I was hit by waves of energy which carried me to memories of past lives. Damanhur is said to be on a natural intersection of many ley lines making it a place of accelerated manifestation. I was constantly having fits of ancient remembrance as well as intense lucid dreams. Then, I was introduced to a woman who I later came to realize was my twin flame. After a while, it hit me that I was told before I left by a close friend in Shasta who was a psychic that I was going to meet my other half. I later learned that the woman who I realized at Damanhur was my other half was told the same thing by one of her psychic friends. She was also told this by other high ranking members of the Damanhur community, yet they were keeping this from me because they wanted me to figure it out for myself. Well, I was clueless until after one night when I had the most peculiar dream. When I awoke, I called out to this woman and said, "You are my twin flame!" She looked at me with complete shock, and then looked at her watch for some reason. Her watch had stopped at that time, never to budge. My deceased sister then began to communicate to me through my newly found twin flame and a psychic surgery was performed on me to remove some implants that the Grays had installed. My life changed completely! I was a new man and I saw the world in a new light.

In between all of this, I had the privilege to tour the underground temples of Damanhur and see their time machine, also known as "The Hall of Water."

Now, they do not advertise “The Hall of Water” as a time machine, but it can be heard from members of the community, if you ask. The whole reason I went to Damanhur was that I was interested in time travel. If you watch the video of “The Hall of Water,” you will see there are long, glass cylinders filled with water, with some kind of spiral wiring inside, that are hung on a metal ring. Around the sides of the round room are large cylinder magnets protruding from the wall angled down at the metal ring with the glass cylinders dangling from it. The glass cylinders can be parted easily to enter the inside of the circle, where it is said that select members of Damanhur are allowed to beam to other time periods. Some members revealed to me that they were trying to restore the original timeline because it had been tampered with so much by the US government and dark ETs. I have been forever changed by this profound experience and any input that you may have would be much appreciated. Also, feel free to share this information with others.

Blessings to you, Andrew!
